PROBLEMS & NEEDS REPORT
FIRST QUARTER 2008

Report Summary

The following topics are issues of special concern to the residents of the nine San Francisco Bay Area Counties:

Election Issues

Issues related to the upcoming elections in both local and national races. Topics include; the discussion of ballot measures and views from both sides, candidates, polling, debate coverage, immigration and voting machine issues.

Election Issues

Air Date	Program	Length
1/3/08	Mornings on 2	4:00
San Francisco District Attorney Kamala Harris, Vice Chair of Barack Obama's California campaign, is one of a number of California politicians working the voters in Iowa's tight race.
1/4/08	Mornings on 2	4:00
KTVU Reporter Mark Curtis has analysis on the Iowa caucus results.
1/25/08	Mornings on 2	4:00
Political Analyst Matt Continetti, Associate Editor of the Weekly Standard, reviews last night's GOP debate in advance of Tuesday's do-or-die primary in Florida, which may produce a candidate for the party.
1/27/08	All Newscasts	2:25
California voters will face many issues on the February ballot including a controversial one about community colleges. Prop. 92 would reduce tuition costs for students, but critics say it's not that simple.
1/27/08	All Newscasts	3:24
Now that Barack Obama has won the South Carolina primary, he and other democratic candidates are gearing up for Super Tuesday, Feb. 5 th . That's when California and 20 other states hold their primaries. KTVU's Political Editor talked with Barack Obama about those upcoming primaries yesterday, as the Senator was awaiting the results in South Carolina.
1/29/08	All Newscasts	:55
There are new developments tonight in the race for president, as republican voters in Florida awarded their delegates to Senator John McCain. Meantime, Rudy Giuliani is indicating he may call it quits, perhaps as soon as tomorrow. And on the democratic side, a new controversy is brewing...Hillary Clinton claimed victory in Florida, even though the democratic party decided Florida's delegates would not count, because the state moved up its primary. Clinton is now suggesting maybe they should count.
1/29/08	All Newscasts	2:44
The nest big campaign event is Super Tuesday, 23 states will hold primaries, including California, a state where the population includes a majority of minorities...and that's who the candidates are going after.

1/29/08 All Newscasts 2:38

The California primary is just one week away, while many voters say they still haven't decided which candidate to vote for, others say they could still change their minds.

1/30/08 All Newscasts 2:40

As Giuliani and Edwards dropped out of the race today, they both expressed strong feelings about why they had run and the direction they hoped the presidential campaign would now take.

1/30/08 All Newscasts 3:24

Two top presidential candidates, one democrat and one republican, withdrew today from the race for the White House. Democrat John Edwards and Republican Rudy Giuliani, who was once considered the GOP front-runner...bowed out.

1/30/08 All Newscasts 2:34

With Mike Huckabee and Ron Paul now longshots, Senator McCain focused his criticisms on Mitt Romney tonight and Romney zeroed in on McCain and accused him of being a Liberal. Here in front of Air Force One, at the Presidential Library of conservative icon, Ronald Reagan, here where the debate, all the candidates posed with Nancy Reagan, "Liberal" is a dirty word.

1/30/08 All Newscasts 11:53

KTVU News Election 2008 Special. A critical final debate before Super Tuesday and California's primary election. In front of Air Force One at the Ronald Reagan Presidential Library in Simi Valley, the four remaining republican candidates squared off to help determine the GOP nominee for president. Issues discussed were their stances on the economy, the war, environment and immigration.

1/31/08 All Newscasts :37

Conservative Republican candidate Mike Huckabee came to liberal San Francisco today...looking for votes. Huckabee told the Commonwealth Club, he's still very much in the race, even though he hasn't won a primary or caucus since Iowa. And Huckabee dismissed suggestions that he's poised to drop out, or that he's really seeking the Vice Presidency.

1/31/08 All Newscasts 1:30

Tonight we'll have an additional half hour of election coverage. We'll break down the issues and get expert analysis to give you and in-depth look at tonight's democratic debate. This is the last scheduled debate between the two remaining candidates before Super Tuesday.

1/31/08 All Newscasts 3:07

If you qualify to vote and register to vote, then you should be able to vote. But KTVU has learned that just five days before this historic primary, tens of thousands of registered voters across the state may have been stripped from their voters rolls without even knowing it.

1/31/08 All Newscasts :37

Romney political ads are about to hit the airwaves...big time, here in California and in other states. One ad features a direct attack on Hillary Clinton. Romney says he has far more experience than she does and therefore he's a better person to lead the nation. It's not clear exactly how much Romney will spend before Super Tuesday, but it is expected to be millions of dollars.

2/1/08 All Newscasts 4:00

San Francisco Chronicle Reporter Carla Marinucci attended the democratic debate in Los Angeles, which turned out to be a lot mellower than people expected. She will join us to discuss the final debate before the California primary and Super Tuesday.

2/5/08 All Newscasts 4:00

Senator Hillary Clinton, Democratic candidate for President, talks about her bid for the White House.

2/6/08 All Newscasts 4:00

Former California GOP Chairman Duff Sundheim and Democratic political analyst and talk show host Bill Press talk about what's next for their party's candidates.

2/11/08 All Newscasts 1:11

The remaining republican candidates will also face off tomorrow in the so-called Potomac primaries. The front-runner John McCain, picked up an endorsement today from a member of the Bush family.

2/11/08 All Newscasts 2:59

Fresh from a weekend of five contests, Barack Obama may be poised to beat Hillary Clinton in three more democratic presidential contests tomorrow. In fact, it now appears he may win ten straight primaries and caucuses. Still, Clinton says she is not worried.

2/13/08 All Newscasts 3:03

Senator Hillary Clinton put on a brave face today; the morning after Barack Obama trounced her in three out of three primaries. He now leads in states won, in the delegate count and fundraising. And today, Bill Clinton's 1992 campaign manager endorsed Obama. So what does Hillary Clinton do now?

2/21/08 Mornings on 2 4:00

KGO talk show host and political analyst John Rothmann will preview tonight's debate in Texas. It is supposed to be the last one, with Obama refusing to do more and Clinton needs to do well here if she is to have any chance of stopping him.

2/22/08 All Newscasts 2:28
California's Republican Party is meeting in the Bay Area this weekend. The convention kicked off in San Francisco tonight...with a speech from a visiting GOP senator.

2/22/08 All Newscasts 2:45
It's been a difficult day for democratic presidential candidate Hillary Clinton. First, a fatal accident in her motorcade, and now there are signs that some super delegates she thought she could count on...may be switching their support.

2/24/08 All Newscasts 3:01
With just nine months before the general election and major candidates from both parties long gone from the contest, there's a new contender tonight in the race for the White House. Ralph Nader announced today he's campaigning for president. He's the man many democrats blame for causing Al Gore to lose the presidential election in 2000.

2/25/08 All Newscasts 2:44
Things got equally strange today on the republican side. Senator John McCain, the likely republican presidential nominee, made comments about his candidacy, Iraq and then quickly took it back.

2/25/08 All Newscasts 2:57
There's a strange new twist in the race for the democratic presidential nomination. Some one or some group sent a photo of Barack Obama in African clothing to an internet site. Tonight, the Obama campaign is accusing the Clinton camp of fear mongering.

2/26/08 All Newscasts 1:26
The presumed republican nominee, John McCain, denounced one of his one republican supporters today, and came to the defense of his democratic rivals. At a rally in Cincinnati, conservative talk show host, Bill Cunningham, took the stage before Senator McCain arrived. Cunningham repeatedly referred to Obama as Barack Hussein Obama. Hussein is Obama's middle name. Later, McCain called the remarks disparaging. But that wasn't all Cunningham had to say.

2/26/08 All Newscasts 3:29
In perhaps the most important debate of her career, Hillary Clinton tried to dent the armor of Democratic front-runner Barack Obama. The debate took place in Ohio, one of the four states that vote next Tuesday. For Clinton, it is essentially do or die.

2/27/08 All Newscasts 3:03

Democratic Presidential candidate Barack Obama picked up the endorsement today of a prominent super-delegate, who had been backing Hillary Clinton. Eleven-term Georgia Congressman and Civil Rights leader, John Lewis, said he is switching his support because an overwhelming majority of his constituents voted for Obama in the February 5th Georgia primary. And even though Democrats and Republicans still haven't chosen their nominees, Barack Obama and John McCain took each other on today as if their nominations were already a done deal.

2/28/08 All Newscasts :57

Independent Presidential candidate Ralph Nader announced he's picked up former San Francisco Supervisor Matt Gonzalez as his running mate. Each has run for office as a Green Party candidate in the past, but this "joint run" is without the backing of any political party whatsoever. Gonzalez is defending his spot on the ticket, against criticism that Nader's campaign will draw votes away from the Democratic nominee in November. Gonzalez lost the San Francisco Mayor's race to Gavin Newsom in 2003. Since then, the 42-year old attorney has worked with Nader against the war in Iraq and on Nader's Presidential campaign.

3/14/08 All Newscasts 3:26

Barack Obama is on the defensive tonight after a new controversy erupted in the campaign for President. Obama was forced to denounce his own pastor for some inflammatory sermons the pastor has delivered over the years he is accused of giving sermons using the "n" word; sermons denouncing Hillary Clinton and sermons calling for the U.S. to be damned.

3/18/08 All Newscasts 3:55

In one of the most important speeches of his life, Barack Obama today tried to undo the damage done to his Presidential campaign, by inflammatory remarks made by his former Pastor, Jeremiah Wright. But Obama didn't stop there. He talked about America's history of racism and what he called a "racial stalemate."

3/21/08 All Newscasts 2:46

Senator Obama today won what many consider to be one of the most coveted political endorsements of the entire campaign: the backing of the Nation's only Latino Governor, former Presidential candidate, Bill Richardson of New Mexico. Richardson's endorsement came despite his close ties to Obama's rival.

3/24/08 All Newscasts 2:58

Hillary Clinton's campaign did some backtracking today on a claim she made to bolster her foreign policy experience. Clinton spoke last week about having to evade sniper fire during a trip she took to Bosnia when she was First Lady. It turns out; she apparently was never in any danger.

3/25/08 All Newscasts 2:56

John McCain and Hillary Clinton spoke out today on the latest economic bad news: falling home prices and sagging consumer confidence. And what McCain said, may have surprised some people. He talked about what he “wouldn’t do” to help homeowners.

3/26/08 All Newscasts :54

John McCain defended his economic positions today, but he also said he was open to any and all ideas on how to solve the mortgage crisis. McCain said he was against governmental bailouts in certain cases. He said those cases included real estate speculators, lenders who used heavy-handed tactics and homeowners who really didn’t qualify for mortgages.

3/27/08 All Newscasts 3:01

Democratic Presidential candidates Barack Obama and Hillary Clinton departed today from their recent habits of attacking each other...and instead focused their fire on the economy and John McCain. But as Political Editor Randy Shandobil reports, much of the attention today was not on what the candidates said, but on who introduced Obama at his campaign event.

3/31/08 All Newscasts 2:58

Hillary Clinton and Barack Obama today seemed to heed the call of fellow Democrats, who are worried that the candidates’ bitter battle could hurt the party’s chances in November. Instead, Clinton and Obama focused their criticism on John McCain, who is calling attention to his patriotic past.

3/31/08 Mornings on 2 4:00

KTVU’s Political Analyst, Mark Curtis, will discuss Saturday’s Democratic Convention. He will talk about the numerous potential candidates for Governor, Obama’s view on Senator Clinton quitting and the trend among super delegates.

During the past quarter, KTVU broadcast programming that was responsive to community issues. Due to the extensive amount of such programming, the issues and programs list contains only a portion of the locally produced, issue responsive programming actually broadcast by KTVU.

Business & Economy

Air Date	Program	Length
1/16/08	Mornings on 2	4:00
Lisa Lang is the VP of Communications for the San Francisco 49ers and will discuss the outcome of last night's vote in Santa Clara regarding the 49ers stadium.
1/21/08	Mornings on 2	4:00
San Francisco Chronicle Columnist David Lazarus discusses efforts by the White House to boost the economy and why the plan might backfire.
1/24/08	Mornings on 2	4:00
Michael Gadams is the owner of Bay Area Home Sales & Evaluations and a broker there. He specializes in selling foreclosed houses and is right in the middle of the housing crisis. He is currently working on auctioning off several Bay Area homes.
1/29/08	All Newscasts	2:45
Is one of the key salmon populations in California collapsing? And could that lead to a total ban on salmon fishing this year? That's part of a grim assessment by the agency that regulates fishing.
1/31/08	All Newscasts	2:40
The growing popularity of an alternative to sports bars is helping push wine sales to record levels. Just a few short years ago, there were hardly any wine bars. But these days there seem to be plenty. The California Wine Merchant here on San Francisco's Chestnut Street is one a rapidly growing number of Bay Area wine bars...and at the bars, wine atmosphere and conversation rule, not loud music, mixed drinks and beer. Another bonus for California's wine industry...our weak dollar makes the price of U.S. wines a bargain...and that's increasing wine exports. Many experts believe this new growth will last a decade.
Market analyst Ken Winans will discuss the decision by the fed to cut a key interest rate by half a point. He is a believer in the old stock market saying, "as January, so goes the year," and says things aren't looking good for the future of the market.

2/16/08 All Newscasts 2:24

For hundreds of Bay Area homeowners, that help comes too late...they've already lost their homes. But does that mean opportunity for those looking to get a bargain? KTVU reports on the huge turnout for a home foreclosure auction. Some homes, which sold for $500,000 last year, went for under $200,000 today. But while there were some good deals, some people warn that what you see in the auction photo is not always what you get. Today, about 115 properties were sold on the spot. Tomorrow, the auction continues here at the Airport Hilton starting at 1pm.

Contra Costa County homeowners facing possible foreclosure got some special help today. Three East Bay Lawmakers organized a homeowner's workshop in Pittsburg. The city along with Antioch and Brentwood...has one of the highest foreclosure rates in the country. Experts were brought in today to explain the foreclosure process and ways to avoid it. Homeowners were also told how to re-negotiate their loans with lenders. Credit counselors were also on hand to meet one-on-one with homeowners to discuss their loan options.

It is the end of a technology era. The decades old analog technology is being replaced with digital. So what does it mean to you? KTVU's Consumer Editor makes sense of the upcoming nationwide switch.

2/20/08 All Newscasts 4:32

The wave of home foreclosures is creating new opportunities for those who have longed to buy a Bay Area home, but couldn't afford one. In many areas, prices have plummeted. And for many first time homebuyers, the prices drops are creating the kind of market they can move into.

2/20/08 All Newscasts 2:45

What is the future of news? Will the growing popularity of so-called new media outlets make traditional media obsolete? Those questions were on the minds tonight of future journalists at U.C. Berkeley.

2/20/08 All Newscasts 1:38

KTVU News accompanied state labor investigators today on the first raids of a two-day crackdown on clothing makers. Investigators say they were looking for violations of state labor laws. We took exclusive pictures as state investigators fanned out today in San Francisco, San Mateo, Alameda and Contra Costa Counties. They checked to make sure companies had proper licenses and were maintaining required records. They were also making sure companies are complying with Workers' Comp. And overtime rules.

2/25/08 All Newscasts 2:47

In Berkeley tonight, there is new fallout tonight from all of those protests in front of the Marine Recruiting Center on Shattuck Avenue. Businesses in the area say...those demonstrations are hurting their bottom line. For the past four months, activist groups "Code Pink" and "World Can't Wait" have staged protests outside the Marine's office most every day. But last month when the city went on record to oust the Marines, counter demonstrators showed up, police were called in and the demonstrations have become increasingly noisy. Most business owners declined to talk to us...saying they don't want to antagonize either side in the debate...whether the Marines should stay or go. Last Friday's confrontation was particularly difficult for business owners. Some say their customers don't want anything to do with a scene like this and tend to stay away. For their part, members of "World Can't Wait" say they sympathize with businesses who are inconvenienced, but they hope to win over the business owners in their fight against the Marines.

2/26/08 All Newscasts 2:51

Hundreds of worried Vallejo residents packed a Vallejo city council meeting tonight to talk about the desperate condition of Vallejo's finances. The East Bay city is on the brink of becoming one of the first-ever California cities to declare bankruptcy. And tonight, residents were pointing their fingers at just about everybody in city government.

2/26/08 All Newscasts 2:42

New economic reports pointed to the latest in what has been a series of blows to the nation's economy; increases in wholesale prices ranging from energy, to food and prescription medications. And the continuing decline in home prices has led to a steep drop in consumer confidence and fears of so-called "stag-flation."

2/26/08 All Newscasts 2:48

In the East Bay, Safeway is laying off workers. Officials at the grocery store chain tell KTVU News that today's job cuts involve employees at corporate headquarters in Pleasanton and at nine other district offices around the nation, but no at your neighborhood store.

2/28/08 All Newscasts 2:51

The Cow Palace in Daly City, a stone's throw from San Francisco, has hosted a wide range of events in its' more than 60 year history...including athletic events, rodeos, gun shows and political conventions. But if a bill by State Senator Leland Yee is approved...its days could be numbered. Yee hosted a meeting tonight, in the midst of the budget crisis, to discuss his proposed bill that calls for a possible sale of some or all of the Cow Palace property from the state to Daly City. Redevelopment would be the end goal. Opponents are incensed.

3/7/08 Mornings on 2 4:00
U.S. Treasurer Anna Escobedo Cabral is the Treasury Department's expert on the country's current mortgage crisis. As defaults on mortgages are at an all time high, she'll talk about what the government plans to do about it.

3/14/08 All Newscasts 2:49
Analysts say the bailout of Bear Stearns is a clear sign that the credit crisis is far from over. And while President Bush was reassuring the nation today that the economy will get better, many people say they sense the nation is already in a recession.

3/18/08 Mornings on 2 4:00
Washington Post Economics and Federal Reserve Reporter, Neil Irwin, talks about the latest bumps in the U.S. economy and how the latest fed cut will affect the economy.

3/20/08 All Newscasts 2:50
A ten-day walkout involving thousands of nurses is set to begin first thing tomorrow morning. The strike against Sutter hospitals will be felt in nine Bay Area counties. But hospital administrators say they are doing everything possible to ensure patients get the care they need. Ten Bay Area hospitals including Alta Bates, here in Berkeley will be affected. A total of four thousand nurses are going on strike starting at seven o'clock tomorrow morning. This will be the third labor action for Sutter nurses in the past six months and by far....the longest. The nurses argue that their workloads are too heavy and that Sutter needs to at least have relief nurses on duty who can fill in on meal and rest breaks. A Summit spokeswoman said that the hospital meets all of the state requirements for staffing and to say that they are not safe is ridiculous. Money is also an issue. The nurses have labor action scheduled for each of the next ten days.

3/20/08 Mornings on 2 4:00
Registered Nurse Eileen Prindiville talks about why thousands of nurses from eight Bay Area hospitals are beginning a ten day strike this morning.

3/21/08 All Newscasts :51
Registered nurses at ten Bay Area Sutter hospitals walked off the job today...the first day of a ten-day strike. According to a Sutter spokesman, about half of the nurses at some hospitals are off the job. A union spokesman said participation is much higher...about 95%. Each side is accusing the other of underhanded tactics.

3/23/08 All Newscasts 1:55
For nearly 70 years, Sconza Candy has been making sweets in the East Bay. But it's getting ready to pack up the butter, sugar and chocolate. Officials with the family owned business say it will close its Oakland factory at the end of August. A spokeswoman for the company says it had long outgrown the facility. It will relocate to the former Hershey factory in Oakdale, which was shut down in February, leaving scores of people without jobs. The factory will bring Oakland employees with them and also hire some former workers from the Hershey plant; who are very happy to be working again.

3/24/08 All Newscasts 1:07

Striking nurses in San Francisco and other Bay Area cities say they plan to hit the picket lines again tomorrow. Today, the nurses held a New Orleans-style funeral march to protest the closure of several units at St. Luke's hospital. The nurses say staffing levels put patients at risk. But Sutter says the talk of patient care is nothing but a scare tactic....and Sutter took out a full page ad in the San Francisco Chronicle to reassure patients. Sutter says the union is trying to force hospitals into negotiating a master contract for nurses at all eight hospitals.

3/24/08 All Newscasts 2:38

Breaking a six-month losing streak, the National Association of Realtors today reported a rise in the sale of existing homes in February. Nationwide the increase was 2.9% in January, but what about California?

3/25/08 All Newscasts 2:52

A federal appeals court in New York today, struck down a measure intended to assure airline passengers would never again have to endure sitting on a plane with no food or water and overflowing toilets. The court said New York's Passenger Bill of Rights infringed upon federal authority...which calls into question a similar measure under consideration in California.

3/26/08 All Newscasts 2:35

If you were schedule to fly American Airlines today, there was a good chance you didn't. The world's largest airline grounded some 200 flights nationwide to conduct safety inspections. And as KTVU reports, American is not the only airline to take a closer look at some of its planes. Also, how the inspections have affected the Bay Area.

3/28/08 Mornings on 2 4:00

Jan Rodolfo is a Registered Nurse at Alta Bates Summit in Oakland. She is also on the bargaining team for the California Nurses Association. On Sunday, the nurses are holding a final rally at Pacific Medical Center in San Francisco before leaving the picket lines and returning to work on Monday. She will talk about how the strike went and whether or not their efforts are seeing results.

3/30/08 All Newscasts 2:37

When thousands of Bay Area nurses walked off the job more than a week ago, they had hoped the action would jump-start stalled negotiations. But as the strike winds down, hospital officials say the only thing the walkout has done is cost everyone money. Picketing nurses say they will be out again early tomorrow morning giving one last show of support before many of them head back to work at 7am.

3/30/08 All Newscasts 2:45

Thousands of Bay Area travelers with plans to go to Hawaii might want to check their tickets. Aloha Airlines announced today it is ending operations...and that includes flights from Oakland and Sacramento to Hawaii. Aloha Airlines says if people are booked for a flight April first or later and want a refund, they will need to put the request in with a travel agent or credit card company.

3/31/08 All Newscasts 2:59

After more than sixty years in the air, Aloha Airlines promptly halted all passenger service today including flights between Oakland and Hawaii. Aloha's CEO blamed the shutdown on unfair competition from a new low-fare airline that flies within the Hawaiian Islands...and on soaring fuel costs. KTVU's Consumer Editor reports on what the shutdown means for Hawaii-bound passengers.

Local opposition is building against the state's plan to spray much of the Bay Area this summer to get rid of the apple moth. The voracious moth threatens millions of dollars worth of produce and wine crops. Those against spraying gathered in Berkeley tonight. They say last year's spraying in Monterey and Santa Cruz counties caused hundreds of health problems...and it's a lie that the spray is harmless. Meanwhile, there are bills in the state legislature to stop future spraying, but for now, this summer's aerial application of the pesticide will go forward.

Aerial spraying is not the only option. The state is using another method of fighting the apple moth in areas where it is not spraying. Specifically, they are using red twist ties coated with pheromones. The ties are put in trees and attract male moths. It is another way of interrupting the moth's mating patterns. The ties are already in place in parts of San Mateo County and plans call for them to be used in other neighborhoods throughout the Bay Area.

2/25/08 All Newscasts 2:58

Emotions are running high in San Francisco tonight, where the state of California's plan to spray pesticides, in effort to control the light brown apple moth, is running into stiff opposition. Agriculture officials plan aerial spraying this summer above all of San Francisco, plus parts of San Mateo, Alameda, Contra Costa and Marin counties. The state says crops are at risk and that the spraying is safe. Residents aren't so sure. Almost 200 people turned out for what officials called an environmental impact report scoping meeting. The California Department of Food and Agriculture wants to get public comment on its plans to spray about 700 square miles of Northern California to try to eliminate the light brown apple moth. Officials certainly got an earful. Spraying has already taken place against strong public criticism in Monterey and Santa Cruz Counties and is scheduled to start in the Bay Area August 1st.

2/26/08 All Newscasts 2:56

Two public hearings are underway in the East Bay tonight to address the growing controversy over the state's plan to spray chemicals to control the light brown apple moth. Agriculture officials want aerial spraying above Southern Marin, San Francisco, the upper Peninsula and parts of the East Bay. Several hundred San Franciscans voiced their opposition last night. Tonight, Berkeley and Oakland residents added their voices to the chorus. The Agriculture Secretary says the $75 million eradication program is needed to stop the Australian invader here in California before it gains a foothold here in North America. Council members also heard from other experts who suggest the threat from the moth is being overblown and more study is needed to ensure aerial spraying of hundreds of square miles of Bay Area neighborhoods won't harm people or animals. And the Oakland City Council Public Safety Committee is deciding whether or not to recommend Oakland pass a resolution urging the state to abandon the spraying program. But a state Food & AG spokesman says in all likelihood, the spraying will take place no matter what the public has to say.

The price of crude oil is marching higher, soaring above one hundred three dollars a barrel today before falling back just under that number. It is not good news for motorists who are already paying high prices at the pump and can expect to pay even more. Four dollar a gallon gasoline as you can see is already here in the Bay Area. In a sign of the times, Silicon Valley Hummer is going out of business. When this dealership opened three years ago, gasoline was selling for $1.41. Now this is a $63,000 SUV that still gets 12 miles per gallon. General Motors wanted a new showroom built. The owner says the higher costs just didn't pencil out. San Jose Mayor Chuck Reed did an about face and said today that voters will get to resolve the controversy about what to call the city's Vietnamese commercial district. Currently, the stretch of Story Road is being called the "Saigon Business District." But many want to call it "Little Saigon." The issue will be placed on the November ballot. Mayor Reed said that will cost about $300,000 and the money will be well spent if it finally settles the dispute...once and for all.

Tomorrow is shaping up to be a volatile day in Berkeley over the Iraq War. Police are preparing for hundreds of protesters to descend on City Hall...after the Berkeley City Council's controversial decision to tell Marine recruiters they're unwelcome. The Marine Corps. says it has no plans to abandon its recruiting station. Berkeley is still facing the threat of having federal and state funds cut off if it doesn't rescind its condemnation of the Marines.
The Berkeley City Council voted very early this morning to back peddle, a bit, from its stand against the Marine Recruitment Center. Demonstrations continued today outside the center. The council voted to rescind a letter it planned to send to the Marines calling them "unwelcome intruders." But the council would not apologize to the Marines. Instead, council members stressed their respect for military personnel. It remains to be seen, what if any, economic price the city will pay for its original action. East Bay Assemblyman Guy Houston still wants to cut more than three million dollars in transportation funds for Berkeley, because the city designated a parking spot in front of the recruitment center for protest groups. Council members did not rescind that designation when they voted earlier today.

The City of Vallejo's long-simmering financial crisis maybe on the verge of boiling over. Top city officials say Vallejo could run out of money in April...and admit bankruptcy is a distinct possibility. A town hall meeting is planned for tomorrow night. One city council woman says Vallejo faces bankruptcy because police and fire union contracts eat up 80% of the general fund. In addition to the threat of bankruptcy, the school district is facing a six million dollar budget cut from the state...as part of the Governor's plan to cutback from public schools statewide. Next Tuesday, the city council is scheduled to vote on a plan designed to avoid bankruptcy.

Proponents of holding a citywide vote on what to name a Vietnamese commercial district in San Jose...gave up that effort today, saying an election would cost too much. The controversy involves the city council's decision to call that neighborhood "The Saigon Business District." Many in the Vietnamese community want it called, "Little Saigon." The council now plans to revisit the naming issue. It is scheduled to begin that process on March 4th.

After two years of study, Contra Costa's Board of Supervisors is expected to take a vote tomorrow on medical marijuana clubs. The supervisors will decide whether to permanently ban all new marijuana dispensaries in the county. Supervisors say the county has spent two years studying the marijuana issue and holding public hearings. Some people say dispensaries can have a negative impact on the community. If the ordinance passes, Don Fowler's El Sobrante dispensary would be the only one left in the county, because it would be grandfathered in. Fowler favors stricter regulation rather than a ban. But Supervisor Piepho says with a tight budget, regulation is not an option. The Board of Supervisors will discuss and vote on the ordinance tomorrow. The meeting begins at 11:00am here in the County Administration building in Martinez.

There is more grim news tonight for the financially strapped City of Vallejo. It now appears the city may be forced to file for bankruptcy and could vote on it as soon as this Thursday. Tonight, concerned residents gathered for a town hall meeting. Will already plummeting real estate prices continue to drop? What about plans to revitalize downtown? And will public libraries be able to keep their doors open? These are just a few questions that residents are pondering.

A Southern California lawmaker made history in Sacramento today, where she was named to be the next leader of the State Assembly and the first African American woman to hold the post. Los Angeles Democrat Karen Bass was named Speaker Designee. Bass will be the 67th Assembly Speaker...replacing Fabian Nunez, who is being forced out by term limits. Bass beat out eight other assembly members, including San Francisco Assemblywoman Fiona Ma. With Senate President Pro Tem Don Perata handing over the reigns of the senate to Darryl Steinberg of Sacramento later this year, the Bay Area will soon be without a legislative leader in the senate or assembly.

The 120,000 residents of Vallejo can breathe easier tonight. City leaders say an 11th hour deal has allowed Vallejo to dodge bankruptcy, at least for now. The tentative agreement is the product of emergency contract negotiations with the police and fire unions. It buys time, but it is just a short term solution. Some council members say the financial troubles result from the generous benefits and high salaries paid to firefighters and police officers. The City Council is scheduled to vote on this tentative agreement Monday night. The labor unions are expected to vote by midweek.

In China, the state media says 105 people protesting in Tibet's capital surrendered to police today. The anti-Chinese demonstrations have turned more violent in recent days. And now...some people in the Bay Area worry that the tense situation could affect upcoming Olympic celebrations here in the U.S. More than one hundred protestors, most of them ethnic Tibetans, gathered here in Berkeley tonight to try to focus Bay Area attention on the situation in their homeland. Today, Chinese Premier Wen Jiabao accused supporters of the Dalai Lama of organizing the violent clashes that began last week. The crackdown in Tibet comes as China tries to bolster its image ahead of the Summer Olympics in Beijing. The conflict is threatening Olympic celebrations in San Francisco and has been dogging Mayor Gavin Newsom for days.

The U.S. is apologizing to China tonight following an apparent arson attack on the Chinese Consulate in San Francisco. Bay Area residents opposed to China's crackdown on Tibet gathered this evening for a more peaceful protest. In front of City Hall tonight in San Francisco, dozens of Tibetan activists held a candlelight vigil. It's among several they've held here and at the Chinese Consulate in recent days. These Tibetan activists are concerned that the arson attack will cast unfair suspicion on them...and detract from their message of peaceful protest. These demonstrators want to continue to put pressure on Mayor Gavin Newsom to speak out against the Chinese government's crackdown on Tibetan protestors. San Francisco is set to host the Olympic Torch Relay next month.

During the five years of the conflict, many people have taken to the streets of Berkeley to oppose the war. And more recently oppose a Marine Recruitment center located downtown. But that's not the reason why hundreds gathered outside the recruiting station today. Shattuck Square was the scene of a rally with hundreds of people in support of the troops and the Nation's efforts in Iraq. Code Pink members and pro-troop supporters exchanged words but the interaction was peaceful. The battle over the Marine Corps. Recruiting office has brought them together several times before.

A group that calls itself the largest grass roots pro-troop organization in the country is calling on the justice department to investigate the Berkeley City Council's actions surrounding protests at the Marine Recruiting Center. The group accused the Berkeley City Council of illegally interfering with military recruitment by supporting protestors, including the anti-war group "Code Pink." The Chief of Staff for Berkeley Mayor Tom Bates said tonight that the city is not violating any federal laws. And she said Berkeley Police protect all demonstrators during protests...regardless of the protestors' political message.

Governor Schwarzenegger's highly promoted universal healthcare plan appears to be dead tonight, after a resounding defeat in the state legislature. A senate committee voted overwhelmingly to reject it. In fact, even a prominent East Bay senator who co-sponsored the plan...came out against it. Alameda County Supervisor Keith Carson says the lack of a universal health care plan is causing serious pain countywide. Carson says we'll have on-going rising costs to the county, and that means taking away those dollars from public protection...it means shifting dollars over from social services on order to take care of that gap. Don Perata says he has no plans to rework this healthcare bill. Instead, he and other leaders in Sacramento will focus on parts of the bill that can be passed, put in to effect, and will help fix this broken system.

One of the nation's largest insurers could face more than a billion dollars in penalties for what California officials are calling "shoddy practices." From routine doctor's visits, to surgeries, state officials say often it was patients, not their insurance company, stuck paying bills. Today, here at UCSF, the state insurance commissioner revealed the results of his yearlong investigation, and he says Pacificare was pretty careless about processing claims. State officials said Pacificare and its parent company Unitedhealthcare could be fined up to $1.3 billion for allegedly handling claims unfairly. Unitedhealthcare's CEO said today, that problems with payment s stem from its purchase of Pacificare in 2006 and difficulties of integrating the two computer systems.
